3 JOB SEEKING DAYS LEFT

BEFORE HALLOWEEN

TREAT YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY TO A NEW JOB … WITH ENOUGH TIME TO BUY THE GOOD CANDY!!!

EVEN UNDER A FULL MOON … AND WITH A 100 APPLICATIONS A DAY…I STILL CAN'T GET AN INTERVIEW!

Maybe, it isn't that you are not working hard enough at finding work…Maybe, there is something MISSING? WHAT COULD IT BE? Treat yourself to the answer…

Check TODAY'S TIPSTER FOR THE TRICKS…

NOTE: The Used Job Shack does not discriminate again werewolf, vampires, mummies or even the life-challenged and the wide assortment of zombies…even they need jobs.

FROM THE SPOOKY DESK OF MS. GETT A. LONG, PhD.

"100 RESUMES SENT PER DAY…
EIGHT HOURS ON THE COMPUTER FILLING OUT APPLICATIONS BUT, YET NO JOB INTERVIEWS…"
WHAT GIVES?

Every day we have people that give their job search 1000% and they seem to never achieve the end result of getting selected for an interview.

Every day they pump out resumes and do online applications by the 100's and STILL no interviews.

What's going on? What is the solution? Can we flip their job search and turn an unsuccessful job search into a successful hire?

Gett A. Long is part of the original employment gang here at the Used Job Shack and a nationally known expert (her picture is posted in most post offices in America and most locations are offering big money to find her…I guess to utilize her great talent and skills in the Workforce Community) and is here today with us to offer explanations and propose solutions.

Gett told the Used Job Shack that any applicant that is sending out this volume of applications or resumes without (at least) a 30% success ratio may have well destroyed their opportunity to secure short term employment because they have saturated the local market with a bad or incorrectly done application that they cannot (now) take back.

Dr. Gett A. Long told us that the greatest cause of not getting called for interviews comes from the applicant not connecting the dots between what an employer needs and what skills that they have that related to those skills.

80% of all applications get tossed because the applicant did not connect the dots either because it was too much work to individually inform the employer that you have the required skills or that the applicant assumed that everyone knows all of the different aspects of their job. Applicants need to understand that they are not the employer's cousin and all that the employer will ever know about them is what the applicant puts on the application – if you are not connecting the dots – that is what happened to 80% of your applications.

Dr. Gett A. Long explained that problem lies in the fact that less than 1-in-4 applicants study the job description posted by the employer before they fill out the application and they are using old lady luck to open an employer's eyes and heart to their application.

Most applicants confuse or do not know the difference between skills and experience (skills are what you can do and experience is what you have done). They tend to underplay or not list skills and this is a big mistake because the employer is seeking skills over experience. Skills and experience occasional overlap but, I saw four people yesterday that would have been hired if they would have talked about their skills instead of their experience (or lack of).

SCARY BUT TRUE...THERE ARE MANY JOBS OUT THERE!

DON'T TELL ANYONE...

WE MIGHT HIRE YOU!
